

Ulster Bank Appoints Chief Technology and Information Officer

Ulster Bank today (16th September 2019) announces the appointment of Sheamus Causer to the position of Chief Technology and Information Officer. Sheamus joins Ulster Bank's Executive Committee and reports to the Chief Executive. Sheamus' responsibilities will include strategic oversight of the Bank's information and data as well as the development of central customer systems in technology and payments.

Sheamus joins Ulster Bank from Deutsche Bank where he has been Global Head of Insights and CEO of Deutsche Bank Service Centre in Ireland for the past five years.

Ulster Bank Chief Executive Jane Howard said:

"I am delighted to announce that Sheamus Causer has joined Ulster Bank as Chief Technology and Information Officer. Sheamus will be a key member of my Executive Committee responsible for our data strategy and the development of key customer systems across technology, payments and information."

ENDS

Bio:

With over 25 years experience, Sheamus has held a number of senior Information Technology, Data Management and Operations roles in the global financial services industry. Sheamus' prior experience, including leading Deutsche Bank's global analytics function and the provision of technology consulting support to a range of leading local and international banks, has given him hands on insight into technology, payments and data best practice. Prior to Deutsche Bank, Sheamus was Director of Risk Analytics in Deloitte Ireland. Australian born, Sheamus holds MSc and MBA qualifications, and is currently serving as an Advisory Panel member for the European Data Science and Artificial Intelligence Awards.